FROM MAINE TO CALIFORNIA

The Maine party of twenty left Boston in a special car at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 19, for the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco, going via the Boston and Albany, New York Central, Michigan Central, Chicago and North Western, Denver and Rio Grande, and Western Pacific.

Traveling by the way of Worcester and Springfield, Mass., reached Albany, N. Y., early in the evening, and the following morning waked in Ontario. Reached Chicago at 3.30 p. m., Sunday June 20, remaining there until 11.20 p. m. The entire party took a sight-seeing trip around the city on one of the big buses.

Chicago has a splendid residential section, and is a city great in size and volume of business. There are fourteen parks and four thousand three hundred miles of streets and boulevards, also an amusement park extending three thousand feet into Lake Michigan, having extensive dancing pavilions, etc. Took dinner at the beautiful Hotel La Salle.

Monday morning, June 21, found us crossing the great state of Iowa, with its thousands of acres of corn fields on either side, and herds of cattle here and there. The corn was smaller than expected by the Maine people, but it is certainly a wonderful agricultural country and this is equally true of much of the Middle West.

Reached Omaha, Neb., during the afternoon, and had time for a ride through the new residential section, also a short trip to the stock yards, called the second largest in the world.

Arrived in Denver, Col., at 8 a. m., Tuesday, June 22, stopping there about one hour. Denver is a beautiful city, with splendid streets, public buildings, residences, and a marvelous system of parks. Denver is situated at an altitude of about seven thousand feet above sea level.

After leaving Denver passed through much barren country before reaching Colorado Springs, which is a great summer resort, and Pueblo, a great mining town. Much of this country is densely populated with prairie dogs, which seem to be the only living things which attract attention.

At Canon City an open observation car was taken on for the trip through the wonderful Royal Gorge. Following up the Arkansas River the railroad winds its way through this wonderful chasm with towering cliffs hundreds of feet high on either side, where it would seem at times that the jaw of the train might dislodge hundreds of tons of rock from high over head, burying at one slide everything below. At one point the river is crossed on a hanging bridge suspended by steel girders crossing the entire canon.

Reached the Continental Divide at Tennessee Pass at 9 a. m. This is at an altitude of 10,242 feet, and was very cool at this place. Early in the morning of June 23 reached Green River, Utah, and for many hours after saw little but rocks, sand and some brush.

Arrived at Salt Lake City at 3 p. m., and later attended a special musical service at the great tabernacle, which seats 10,000 people. Salt Lake City has beautiful homes, splendid public buildings, and wonderful streets, nearly all of which have sufficient elevation for constant flushing of the gutters by an apparently unlimited supply of water, brought from the mountains twenty miles away. It is certainly a clean and well-kept city in all ways. This section was as barren as all the surrounding country only seventy-three years ago when the first band of less than a hundred and fifty people wandered over the mountains and through the desert to the present site of this beautiful city. But one tree stood in that section at that time where there are now thousands which have all been planted.

The greatest surprise was the tax rate, which is $21.80 for 1920. The entire party were delighted with the city, its fine hotels, and the universal courtesy of the people. The population is about 130,000. There seemed to be little business in the way of manufacturing, but about twelve miles from the city was a great smelting plant with a payroll of about $4,000,000 monthly. This, and the wonderful supply of salt explains the ability to have all the fine streets, public buildings, and beautiful homes.

A bus ride around the city was enjoyed on the morning of June 24. The announcer who accompanied the party gave many interesting facts, among which was a description of the manner in which Brigham Young disposed of his large property. He gave $40,000 and a home to each of 19 wives, he gave $20,000 and a home to each of 52 children, and 10,000 to each of 17 mothers-in-law, but no home.

Regardless of wives and children, and his method of disposing of his property, Brigham Young must have been a genius, with a wonderful vision in connection with the possibilities of the future, and he also must have had the assistance of many other able people.

Salt Lake City was left at 2.40 p. m., and much of the time for the next eighteen hours was spent passing through deserts of sand and rocks in Utah and Nevada.

One of the first towns reached in California was Oroville, where we were met by a reception committee who certainly succeeded in doing everything possible in a big way for the Maine party. The station was beautifully decorated and the hundreds of people at the station literally loaded everyone down with olives, fresh figs, cherries, plums, and flowers, and when the train pulled out after a ten-minute stop everyone seemed to be cheering for Maine and California.

Arrived at Oakland at 9 p. m., about three hours late. Ferried across the bay, about five miles, and were soon quartered at the Palace and Argonaut hotels where the Maine party had been assigned rooms. We were all tired and dirty and were soon seeking baths and rest.

Saturday, June 26, was spent in sight-seeing and getting acquainted with delegates from other states. Sunday, June 27, visited the great Golden Gate Park and Seal Rocks, where seals are to be seen in great numbers at all times. Also visited the Presidio, which is a great military camp, and just off shore from this is Alcatraz Island, which is a military prison.

One place of interest in San Francisco was Chinatown, which has a population of about 20,000 Chinese people. This is claimed to be the largest number of Chinese in any one place outside the Orient.

San Francisco is a splendid city, now fully recovered from the great calamity of earthquake and fire which took place in 1906.

One unique thing here was the municipal street railway, running parallel to the corporation owned lines, and the city of being molested.

ies of the West are still on a basis of five and six cent fares, which seemed strange to the New England people. The civic centre of San Francisco represents something like $10,000,000 in public buildings.

Monday, June 28, the convention opened at the auditorium, which is a building with a seating capacity of about 15,000, and splendidly adapted to such purposes. At no time was there any discomfort from heat while in San Francisco, and even in the crowded auditorium this was equally true.

The story of the convention is familiar to all, and it is sufficient to say that James M. Cox of Ohio was nominated on the forty-fourth ballot at about 1.40 a. m. Tuesday, July 6, followed in the afternoon by the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as the candidate for the Vice-Presidency. So passed into history one of the longest Democratic conventions ever held in the country.

After the adjournment of the convention difficulties were plentiful, as thousands of people wished to leave San Francisco as soon as possible, and there was one great scramble to secure sleeping car reservations and get tickets validated.

The Maine party now scattered, some going to Los Angeles for a few days, others remaining a day or two longer at San Francisco, but ten left there at 10.20 p. m., ferrying to Oakland in order to take the 11 p. m. train for Portland, Oregon. This train was run in five sections of all sleeping cars.

Wednesday, July 7, was a day of sweltering heat, as we traveled north through Oregon, and the snow-clad slopes of Mount Shasta towering 14,880 feet above the sea level looked good as the train circled through the mountains. Mount Shasta was seen first on one side of the train and then on the other, as the railroad is extremely circuitous and a marvel of engineering made necessary in getting through the mountains. During the day saw some of the great pine which grows in this section, larger but not as handsome as Maine's white pine.

The Shasta Springs gave a bit of relief for a few moments from the heat, as the train stopped there long enough for all to get a drink of pure cold water.

These springs are wonderful, as they gush in many cases right from the solid rock.

Arrived in Portland, Oregon, at 7.20 a. m., July 8, leaving there at 8 o'clock. This is a great lumber city on the Columbia River. The logs seen in the river were much larger than those cut in Maine. Saw much good farming land and large herds of fine looking cattle, also the largest fields of potatoes seen on the entire trip. Some of the potato fields of Washington made us think of Aroostook County, Maine but not to be compared with our garden of Maine.

Reached Seattle, Washington, at 3 p. m. This is another great lumber city, and also having great fishing industries. It is claimed that Seattle stands next to New York in volume of export trade.

We were given a ride around the city, which has splendid streets, paved to a great extent with brick. The boulevard around the shore of Lake Washington is a beautiful drive. This is a fresh water lake twenty-five miles in length, which is connected with the sea by a canal.

Seattle has a sixty dollar tax rate per thousand dollars on a fifty per cent basis of value. This is a splendid city of about 350,000 people.

Left Seattle for Montreal at 3 p. m. Was given a reservation on the Trans-Canada, which is a splendid train made up of five standard sleepers, a club observation car, and a diner. The 2885 miles from Vancouver to Montreal is made in 92 hours, with the longest stop one of thirty minutes at Winnipeg. The Canadian Pacific said to be one of the finest railroads in the world, and certainly the service on this train in all respects was first class. The dining car service was of the best, and only one change was made during the trip across the continent.

From Vancouver the Canadian Pacific Railroad follows the Fraser River several hundred miles back through the Siikik mountains to the Canadian Rockies. This is a wonderful series of engineering feats in the way of tunnels and bridges, and the scenery is magnificent. During the evening as we were winding around the mountain side a wonderful scene was spread out for several miles along the side of the mountain across the river where forest fires were burning over an area of many hundreds of acres. A truly wild looking scene as we were winding along the side of the mountain, hundreds of feet below, the river, hundreds of feet above, the towering mountains, and the blazing forest on the other side.

At 6.30 a. m., July 10, reached Glacier in the Canadian Rockies, which is a cold here, and snow was to be seen close by on the mountains in every direction. The scenery was wonderful and entirely different from the American Rockies, there is much spruce timber here, large and tall, while much of the way through the American Rockies the mountains are practically bare of trees and vegetation. A tunnel of five miles in length passes through Mount Donald, and later in the day the spiral tunnels were passed, where the road crosses under itself in the mountains as it drops to lower levels.

In the early afternoon Lake Louise and Banff were passed, where the Canadian Pacific Railroad has large summer hotels high in the mountains, with snow on either hand. Late in the afternoon got away from the mountains and passed through a section of rolling country where we commenced to see grain and herds of horses and cattle.

The morning of July 11 waked in a country which seemed about the same throughout the day, being a rolling land which looked dry and not particularly productive, but great quantities of wheat is raised through this section, also many horses and cattle. Rain was heavily raised in this section and within a few hours after our passage a rain fall of over one inch took place which completely raised the crop of that whole section several bushels per acre according to estimate.

There are many shallow lakes through this section and in some places many ducks were seen apparently without any fear of being molested.

NORWAY,

MAINE

Reached Winnipeg, Manitoba, at 5.55 p. m., where we spent thirty minutes, getting opportunity for the greatest amount of exercise in crossing the country.

Early in the morning of July 12 reached Port William on Lake Superior, and here at Port Arthur few miles distant are the great grain elevators for handling the immense quantities of grain shipped by the lake route.

All day Monday we journeyed first along the shores of Lake Superior and then gradually getting more to the north and away from the lake. This is said to be the largest fresh water lake in the world and is called four hundred miles in length. This country is mostly unattractive, having neither agricultural land nor standing timber of any material amount along the line of the railroad. There are practically no towns, with the exception of the little settlements occupied by section men and the water tank stations.

Tuesday morning, July 13, reached Chalk River in Ontario, and soon after commenced passing through the splendid farm land of eastern Ontario. Great lumber towns of Renfrew and Arnprior on the Ottawa River were passed during the morning.

Arrived at Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion of Canada, before noon. This is a fine city with splendid Parliament buildings, hotels and fine residences.

Reached Montreal at 2 p. m. and took an automobile trip around the city, visiting the water front, business section, residential part, Mount Royal, where the city can be seen spread out almost at your feet, with a great flat country stretching away for miles on the other side of the Saint Lawrence, with its towns of whitewashed houses surrounded by splendid farm lands. It would be difficult to find a section having finer home gardens of both flowers and vegetables than may be found among the French Canadian people of the province of Quebec. Montreal has grown rapidly during the past few years, and much building of fine homes is going on at present time. The new buildings are mostly of brick.

At 8.20 p. m. took sleeping car at the Grand Trunk station homeward bound, and it was with a great feeling of satisfaction that home was now so near.

Took breakfast in Maine the following morning, well and happy at being back again. The entire trip covered twenty-five days.

Some Observations
Dozens of Maine people were met between Maine and California. The car was placarded with inscriptions which identified the party as being from Maine and queries like "anybody from Aroostook County?" "anybody here from Kennebec?" "who came from Portland?" were frequently heard.

At San Francisco many people came to the hotel to inquire for Maine people, among whom were two former Norway men, Mr. George Gibson and Mr. Albert Hobbs, who are now located in California.

The trip was of pleasure and profit to all the Maine party, pleasure in traveling together and the many sights and scenes of an interesting nature, profitable from the many things learned about our own splendid country and the Dominion of Canada, which was crossed through all the different provinces from ocean to ocean. It is safe to say that all the Maine people returned loving the old home state even better, and firmer in the belief that there are possibilities that are equal to any seen in all the journey.

It would be well for Maine if all her people, the fathers and mothers, the boys and girls, could but see the rest of our great country, make comparisons and then perhaps conclude that after all here is the place where the greatest degree of comfort and material prosperity may be found.

Mrs. Ellen Davenport and little grandson, Warren Davenport of Worcester, Mass., spent the day Saturday at G. H. McAlister's.

Alton Fernald met with quite a loss the past week. One of his three-year-old steers failed to make its appearance with its mate so a party of several men went in search of him and found him dead, having fell from the top of Squire Dock over the ledge where the big slide was several years ago.

Mrs. Alton Ripley of Portland came to her father's, E. E. Barker's one day last week and got her little daughter, Pauline, Ruth Barker and little Virginia returned to Portland with her.

Mrs. Harriet Wilson has been on a visit the past two weeks to South Paris visiting her brothers, Wm. Rand, J. E. Rand, and a niece, Mrs. Iva Bryant.

Clayton Penley has spent the last two weeks with his brother, Carl Penley, in North Albany.

Christine Littlefield has returned to her home from the Sisters' Hospital in Lewiston, where she was about three weeks ago and was operated on for appendicitis. She is getting along finely.

Floyd Coolidge was at home from Rumford Point, Sunday.

W. W. Brinck and sons of North Newry were at their farm here looking after their potatoes and patching the roof of the barn, Saturday and Sunday.

Edgar Swan of Providence, R. I., called on his sister, Mrs. G. L. Haines, Thursday.

Lester Coolidge was at home from No. Newry over the week end.

William Bennett of Locke's Mills was at his farm Monday and hauled back a load of hay.

W. E. Coolidge and family were at North Newry, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Haines of West Paris visited at G. L. Haines' one evening recently.

W. E. Coolidge is cutting the hay on the Nelson Bartlett farm.

DENMARK

The "Inn" and Camps are well filled with boys and girls, and their parents, so that together with the interest of the past week, is surely a gentle reminder of "the good old summer time."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ingalls of Cambridge are guests of Mrs. Fred Sanborn.

Mrs. Julia Leeman, who has been ill for a long time, is a little more comfortable. She is at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mollie Stewart.

Roy Osgood, who has been suffering with blood poison in his arm, is gaining.

Mrs. Ellis Blake and little daughter Edith spent the day in Portland, Saturday.

Thursday, July 29, the town of Denmark was favored by a flying visit from the State National Suffrage Committee.

The public was not very well informed in regard to the itinerary so very few of our townspeople met our distinguished visitors. Those present were greatly interested in remarks from our nominee for Governor, Frederick Parkhurst, from Frank Ham, chairman of the Republican State Committee and from Miss Edwards of Indiana, national organizer of women's Republican organizations and a noted leader on the woman suffrage movement, also Mrs. Guy Gamett, who represents the women on the Republican national committee.

The speakers did not seem anxious to discuss principles so much as to regulate action. Women taking part for the first time in a national election were advised to thoroughly acquaint themselves with their new duties, especially was organization urged upon them, and while personal effort was not undervalued, they were advised to put the same amount of energy into well organized team work.

The Denmark Suffrage Committee were all present and will doubtless make use of the advice and information obtained.

SEA BREEZES

Written from Great Diamond Island, Portland Harbor, July 27, 1920, by Judge C. F. Whitman:

Editor of the Advertiser: We have been here in our cottage by the sea for a week and have much yet to do in getting settled. At the wharf in the city we met Dr. Frank P. Stone, the Norway druggist, on his way to Great Cheabague, where, with friends, he is stopping for a month. He was in great glee at my expense on account of his boat being scheduled to start 30 minutes before ours, but they had such a big crowd to go on that boat that it was delayed in starting and though it backed out of its dock before our boat we had landed at the Great Diamond wharf when the boat Dr. Stone was on went by. I waived a defiant salute as he passed. Your "Uncle Dudley" don't usually come in second when he is driven into a contest or forced into action.

We are finely located here among the best of people. The surroundings are all pleasant and agreeable. We have never seen a summer cottage with more conveniences. It is well furnished with good material. It was once the residence of the British Consul at Portland. He called it "The Albion Cottage" from "the chalky white cliffs of old England." It will have another name later on when we have entertained here some of my closest friends. Mr. J. H. Day, a member of the firm of Emery-Waterhouse & Co., hardware dealers in the city, and one of the principal members of the Island Association says that it will now be known as the "Whitman Cottage."

Thursday Verné unexpectedly appeared to our great delight and much assisted us towards getting settled. He and I have roamed about the island and one day went up to the city after some necessary articles. We have been over to the fort on the north end of the island and Sunday afternoon went to the "Cliff" and saw the sun set upon the finest view in all Casco Bay. I had supposed one had to go down the harbor to see anything like this scene with old ocean stretching away to the eastward as far as the eye can reach, but am happily disillusioned and prize our place the more, since this magnificent scene in clear days is so near.

I think I purchased a great bargain, but after the presidential election prices and values will tumble as they are sure to! The reign of the profiteers will be over in a year, good judges say, and the more they are squeezed, the better we ought to like it. No level-headed person ought to declare that a particular valuation in a given town is too low. After every war, inflation prices and values mightily shrink and the Great World War will be no exception. A man interested as a broker, in the stock market, and not as a politician, told me that the conditions existing for many months, clearly foreshadowed a change of the national administration and policy, and was the reason for the early betting at odds of two to one for a change. I have nothing to unload, have bought to keep and don't care if only the robber profiteers get squeezed as they deserve to be. There are millions of people waiting with what patience they may have for that day of reckoning.

Although the Island Association furnishes water, to the cottages, piped from wells into a big reservoir, I learned of a spring under a hill over near the fort where we get our drinking water. It is as fine and cool as one could wish.

We went one day down to the private wharf of the Association, but a few rods away, now no longer in use and saw several "mermaids" sporting in the waters of the bay. They were becomingly and modestly dressed, even to having light shoes on. I took off my hat to them with the greatest respect. I couldn't help contrasting their modest apparel with that of modern society women—"two strings" over naked shoulders attached to what—I don't know. Who but a braying animal—"an egregious ass," in the language of Artemus Ward, could approve such attire or have much real respect for a woman so partially dressed.

Well, we don't see any of that class here. We saw a curious sight one day, as the tide was coming in. The water had covered the bar between Little and Great Diamond so that it looked and was a part of the Bay. A man was driving a team across—the water coming up to the wagon body—the horse showing very little of his legs except next to its body. The next day about the same hour, I saw a man rowing a boat over the same course.

A Mr. Foster who has a cottage near the golf links furnishes the people who do not get them in the city, with the daily papers. His father was a Norway man. I must look up the genealogy. In my next communication I'll have among other things, something to say about the men I have got acquainted with and the characters I have run across.

C. F. Whitman.

P. S. I forgot to mention that the fog horn kept me awake nearly all one night. The only consolation I got out of it was that Dr. Stone, down the Bay, must have been having a similar experience.

EVENTS IN THE WEST

Of Interest To Maine People; Written By Joseph Andrews

My family, "the ministers," the Rev. W. J. and May A. Williams, about the middle of June, had a call to the Puritan Congregational Church in Pittsburg, Pa., which they accepted and the above will be my address for some time to come. My 17 year old granddaughter, Margaret Williams, graduated from the Marietta, Ohio, high school in June and in September will enter Oberlin College for a four year course.

The following extracts from a letter just received from Mrs. Swan of Haverhill, California, will explain the sad ending of the accident of which I wrote in my last letter to the Advertiser. Under date of July 16th she wrote in part as follows: "I have had the greatest sorrow of my life in the death of my dear daughter, Irene, which occurred about one o'clock in the morning of May 21st very suddenly, and we will never know the cause of her untimely death any more than that it was the result of accident."

"On May 3 she had the misfortune to break one bone of her leg between the knee and ankle, a simple break, the doctor pronounced it, and told us there was no cause of worry. She was getting along alright apparently, had no pain, a good appetite, cheerful and happy, counting the days of her recovery. She could come home and have her leg taken out of the splints. That night she woke up about twelve in great pain. Her husband, who was alone, did everything that he could to relieve her, but in vain. Inside of an hour she was gone. They were living up at their mine ten miles from us with no neighbors and the doctor would not permit her to be moved as she could have been. There were friends eager to carry her down safely on a stretcher where I could have cared for her—I could not be in two places at once—but he would not allow her to be moved. My heart is broken, she was very dear to me. Naomi H. Swan."

The following letter from a former Lovell boy will be of interest to some of your readers. "June 14th, 1920. Your letter of June 7 received. I had lost trace of you for some time. Will now give you the information asked for in your letter. My wife had a stroke five years ago this month. She is still living, but not able to do much of anything, was not out of the house from last Christmas until spring and is not going out without help. Augustine is still in Florida, has not come north this year, has been in bad health most of the time for the last year or two, but is somewhat improved now. His wife died about five years ago from the effects of a stroke. Conny's wife died last year; he was in Florida last winter, but is in Ebersburg now, but does not keep house. Valley's widow and daughter and family are living with her here. My health is fairly good. I am 73 years old."

"Eugene Barker died last fall from the infirmities of old age. We (Barker Bros.) are not now in the mercantile business. We closed out our business 4 years ago. Conny was then in poor health and my health was not very good then, so we closed out and are not in any particular business now. We have had a very severe winter but the weather is pleasant now."

The Barker Bros., Valentine, Florentine, Augustine and Constantine, and their father, Abraham Andrews Barker, and wife (nee Little) and Eugene Barker and wife (nee Mary Hamblin) were all born at Lovell Center and about 1860-65 moved to Ebersburg and Johnston, Pa., where they became leading and wealthy citizens of their adopted state.

I would like to quote a few extracts from an obituary notice published in the Douglas, Wyo. paper a few weeks ago. Andrew Cooper born at Salmon Falls, Mass., August 3, 1830, married Edith Andrews in 1858. In 1864 came to Ebersburg, Iowa, where he lived for 20 years; in 1884 he moved to Lakota, Wyo., where he died in his 90th year. His wife died 4 years ago. They leave 3 children, 14 grandchildren, and 7 great grandchildren.

Although not born in Lovell, he married a Lovell girl. He bought a small farm three miles from Naples, a village where his family lived while he worked at his trade, that of a machinist, in a nearby city. When he went to Iowa he settled on an 80 acre farm that he had previously bought of Uncle Sam. He was the pioneer settler of the Lovell Center, Oxford Co., Maine colony who 50 years strong in the next few years followed him to his western home. Among those who came were his wife's father, Uncle Isaac Andrews, the first child born in Lovell; his wife's three brothers, William, Jacob, and Isaac Andrews, and sister Sarah Ayers, with their families, John and Frank McDaniels, Col. Sam Hamblin, Mrs. Stephen Stearns and her four children, Wilbur, Stephen, Sewell and Ella, and Moses McKen, all from Lovell Center; and from nearby towns came George Piper and family, Mrs. Piper being a sister of Mr. Cooper (and still living here with her sons at the good old age of 94). Daniel Scribner, Frank Colby, myself and perhaps others, whose names may have escaped my memory.

Crops in this locality were never better. Oat harvest began last week and the oats are good in yield and of good weight. None of my neighbors raise wheat. Blight and rust has nearly ruined the spring wheat crop both this year and last. Wages for farm help is almost out of sight, from $30 to $125 a month with board, room and laundry furnished. Farm rents are also very high. I know of one man who pays $3,600 cash rent for a 360 acre farm.

The price of corn took a big tumble in the last three weeks. From about $1.70 to $1.30 a bushel. Live hogs on the local market bring about $14.00 a hundred. Farm lands continue to boom. A neighbor of mine living a mile and a half west of me has his 160 acre farm listed at $35.00 per acre and he thinks he has it about sold at that price. Sugar is around 30c a lb. and potatoes are down to 6c a pound. Flour about nine dollars a hundred.

On Friday of this week I plan to start for Pittsburg, Pa., where I expect to spend the winter with my daughter and her family. I shall visit on the way with my Yankee friends, the Headis, at Madison, Wisconsin, and also with a few new found friends at Wayland, Ohio. Next spring, if all goes well, I hope to come back to my old homestead for a visit and then I shall prepare my schedule of travel for 1921, which may take me out to Western South Dakota, and Wyoming and later in the season I am quite sure will take me back to Old Lovell Town, to greet once more the few remaining gray-haired boys and girls who still remain this side the grave. View again the grand old mountains, walk along the sandy shores of dear old Kearsar, pick blueberries and blackberries on "Blueberry Knowl" and the old abandoned pasture and wander along the paths that were so dear to me in my boyhood days. Yours truly, Joseph Andrews, 2220 Carey Way, Carson Station, Pittsburg, Pa.

NATIVE OF EAST HIRAM

Harry W. Douglas, jealous and angered because his proposal of marriage was rejected, shot and killed Mrs. Grace Cummings of Cambridge, Mass., Saturday night, July 31, as she lay in her bed preparing to go to sleep, and then turned the weapon on himself inflicting a serious wound in the back of the head. The tragedy is the outcome of a love affair, the young woman having once consented to marriage and the date of the wedding having been set for the first of September.

A few days ago Mrs. Cummings informed Douglas she had decided that she did not care for him enough to marry him, citing her past matrimonial experience with a former Cambridge druggist. Douglas at once, it is reported, flew into a rage and threatened to kill the young woman.

Douglas is a native of East Hiram, and at the outbreak of the war enlisted in the 5th Cavalry, regular army. He was discharged from the service at Fort Bliss, Texas, on April 30, 1919, and at once returned to Boston, taking up his residence with an aunt in Chelsea.

What Our Advertising Man Saw

In a Boston Street Car, and the Car Was

CROWDED

A polite young man surrendered his seat to a strange young lady—with hesitation.

"What's the matter with you," asked his companion, "don't you know that isn't being done this season?"

"I know it isn't—but standing saves the cravens in my trousers," replied the polite young man as he gazed down at a practically bagged pair of knees.

Our idea of this situation is that it must be aggravating when a fellow has to take such precautions to save his appearance.

A KUPPENHEIMER suit would have saved him the trouble of being so polite—and speaking to a young lady he did not know.

ON HEALTH

Look out for the unnatural weakness that indicates thinning of the blood and lack of power. It means that your bodily organs are starving for want of good nourishment; that the red corpuscles are fewer, unequal to demands of health. Hood's Sarsaparilla increases strength of the delicate and nervous, restores red corpuscles, makes the blood carry health to every part, creates an appetite.

If you need a good cathartic medicine, Hood's Pills will satisfy.

EMPIRE GROVE CAMP MEETING

For many years there has been held a Methodist Camp Meeting at Empire Grove East Poland. There is to be such a meeting this season. It will not be the old time meeting. That cannot be with out the old time conditions and the old time people. Intensive study and preparation are required now, rather than mere emotional stirring. The program combining institute and camp meeting features is intended to meet this need.

The mornings will be given largely to institute work. This will be of interest to all, being in the form of addresses and discussions. Rev. A. J. Croft, pastor-evangelist from the West, who has been doing very successful work in the state under direction of the Board of Home Missions, will conduct a series of studies on evangelism, and will speak each evening. Sunday school work will be given an important place on the program under the direction of Rev. G. M. Gearhart of Chicago, who is at the head of the Adult and Christian Education Department of the Methodist Sunday School Board. There is being arranged a series of addresses by selected speakers, on opportunities for aggressive church work. Among these speakers are Rev. I. A. Bean, H. S. Dow, R. F. Lowe, C. L. Wheaton, and Dr. L. D. Bristol of the State Board of Health. This address will be on Thursday, August 19th, and should be heard by a large number for it will concern community health and welfare. Dr. L. E. Lovejoy of Boston will be present two or three days in the interests of Christian Stewardship.

On the afternoons there will be the usual camp meeting services and the evening will have evangelistic meetings. The last Sunday, the people will have the rare privilege of hearing Bishop F. M. Bristol of Chattanooga, Tenn. This will be a great day and no one should miss it. Children's work will be in charge of Miss Hubbard, deaconess of Lewiston. Music is always a feature of the camp meeting. That this will be of a high class is assured by the leadership of G. E. Jones of Auburn, with Bertha Dow at the organ, Cornet, trombone, violin, in the hands of expert players will add to the interest.

Board and lodging can be had on the grounds at reasonable rates. There are no gate or registration fees. All services are open to the public. Everybody is invited. The strong program cannot fail to attract and every indication points to a large attendance.

Our store policy is this,—not to carry over merchandise to another year, that was purchased for this season's business. Regardless of the cost, we have marked the remaining summer stock at very low figures. It will be to your advantage to come in and look around. You will find here and there many things that you cannot afford to let pass.
